Colombia

New visa requirement for nationals of Israel

Executive summary

Nationals of Israel are now required to obtain a visa prior to entering Colombia for business, tourism or family visit purposes. These individuals may continue to transit through Colombia without a visa.

Key developments

Nationals of Israel are eligible to obtain a multiple entry visa for business or tourism purposes that is valid for up to two years, and allows them to remain in Colombia for up to 180 days per stay. The visa can be extended for an additional two years. The new rule is part of a broader effort to enhance reciprocity in international relations.

Impact on employers

Employers that sponsor the entry of nationals of Israel for business purposes may review and update their internal policies and processes to ensure compliance with the new requirements and mitigate delays and business disruptions.
